To whom may concern,

It is with great pleasure that I write to recommend Lian Plasencia for any future opportunities. In my role as Human Resources Business Partner, I have had the opportunity to observe their remarkable professional growth over the past year,

This individual has consistently demonstrated exceptional skills in problem-solving and critical thinking, making significant contributions to our projects. Their ability to work effectively under pressure while maintaining high standards is truly commendable.

Moreover, their excellent communication skills and team spirit have positively influenced our work environment, fostering collaboration and mutual respect among colleagues. Their dedication to continuous learning and self-improvement is an inspiration to all.

I am confident that they will bring these same qualities to any new role or challenge and will prove to be an invaluable asset. I wholeheartedly recommend them for any position or opportunity they pursue.

Sincerely,

Ignacio Macedo
